Reflection 1: June 17, 2019

We have our motivations in intentions words deeds and actions. Each motivation bears significance in the development of the next. We bear in mind the avoidance of those things leading up to misfortune. With empowerment, we guard how we channel our causes, as the sentiments of the overhead are contagious. I've met people in my travels who, though dealing with repression, depression, oppression, after we understand each other's path, equal time to speak, being not in competition for wisdom, but sharing and exchanging practices of benefit that signify the go-ahead fairness, then can we part on equal ground. And when we are tracking our own approaches, we can observe the recurring themes, as when there is improvement to what needs to be satisfied, then, may we be guided aright, toward and within the trajectory of behaviors; and a mutual support system where none should need turn away when the group is addressed. May we not force, and may we be brought survival and sustenance in each form, in key issue reflections and interfaith. And may Allah bestow blessings on our original centers of learning, that of Arithmetic, Literature, Science music, Geometry, Astronomy, Philosophy and Religion.
